Established in 1973 and operating throughout the South East, T. & J. Fire is an independent company which provides a comprehensive integrated protection service to its customers.

about us

Independence allows T. & J. Fire to specify products of the highest quality and provide protection solutions that are tailor-made to its clients' needs, from fire extinguishers, fire detection, emergency lighting and gas suppression systems to CCTV and access control packages.

We pride ourselves in working to the highest industry standards to achieve a safer working environment for our clients and their workforces.

T. & J. Fire works continuously with its clients to create a program of works that suits both the budget and the individual site requirements.

Since our inception, we have seen huge changes in the Health and Safety laws that govern the workplace. Our accumulated knowledge benefits each and every customer.

The end result is total integrated protection.

As a safety based organisation, you can be confident of T. & J. Fire's pedigree. In many cases, customers are putting their personal safety in the hands of our fully trained technicians. This is not a responsibility to be taken lightly. It is for that reason that we have invested extensively in our quality procedures, putting standards and regulations at the top of the list.

T. & J. Fire have a simple aim – to provide its customers with the best possible service and the highest quality standards of fire protection in the industry.

T. & J. Fire ensures that companies comply with the very latest regulations and provides a full follow-up maintenance service to ensure they continue to be met.

Our BSI Quality Management accreditation and BAFe (British Approvals for Fire Equipment) qualifications ensure the level of service customers receive is second to none.

our products

Extinguishers

T. & J. Fire supply all types of fire extinguishers and ancillary products including fire blankets, stands, cabinets, hose reels and mobile trolley units.

Our dedicated team of service technicians carry all appropriate spares and are equipped to provide service exchange and new fire extinguishers thereby ensuring that your premises are always protected.

All new fire extinguishers withstand rigorous independent testing to the current British and European Standards and hold the recognised signs of Quality Assurance – the British Standards Kitemark and the European CE mark. You can be assured that you are getting the best your money can buy.

T. & J. Fire provides a comprehensive range of fire extinguishers, fire alarms, emergency lighting, CCTV and access control systems across all industry sectors, with full maintenance support.

Fire Alarms

T. & J. Fire's alarm systems provide the earliest possible warning against fire. Every moment saved in the discovery of fire could make a huge difference to the safety of the people in the building, its contents and the building itself.

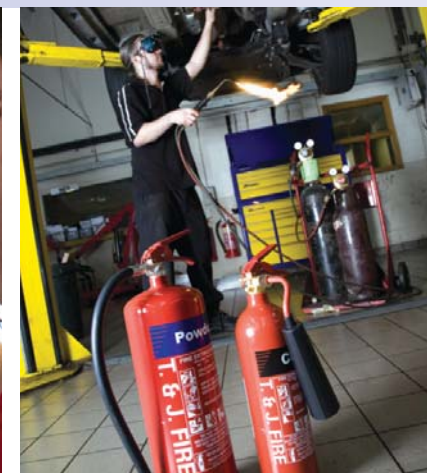

Whether it's a conventional, addressable, wireless or a VESDA system, our range of fire alarm solutions incorporate the best products in each class to ensure that clients are offered the most comprehensive design and the widest range of installations.

CCTV

CCTV Systems are not only used in the fight against theft or criminal damage, many clients use them for other applications including monitoring access to secure areas, deterrence against unauthorised activities, personal safety and to provide remote monitoring of sites.

We provide CCTV systems to fit all internal and external applications, whether they be small stand alone systems or large remotely monitored sites. Utilising the latest technology we can install an integrated solution to meet your precise requirements.

Emergency Lights

Emergency lighting provides instant illumination of standby lights in the event of a mains power failure. It enables all means of escape to be safely and effectively used to evacuate the building.

Believing that prevention is better than cure, T. & J. Fire has been designing, supplying, installing and commissioning integrated fire and emergency light systems since 1987. Comprehensive service and maintenance packages ensure any emergency lights and fire alarm systems continue to operate at optimal performance.

Access Control

Access control systems are designed to manage admittance for employees, contractors and visitors via swipe cards, proximity devices, PIN entry keypads or complex biometrics.

Increasingly clients are turning to access control to protect their staff and buildings from unauthorised access. PC based access systems now allow time and attendance registers to be checked. They also have the ability to view the site remotely and change accessibility rights and system parameters.

our services

Maintenance

T. & J. Fire's integrated maintenance packages are tailored to its clients individual requirements. Whatever the size of your company and whatever industry sector you operate in, our service is second to none.

Training

Legislation requires that all employees receive fire training.

We offer a comprehensive Practical Fire Extinguisher Training course. The course contains a sensible mix of theoretical tuition and hands-on practical experience aimed at giving the delegates an all round knowledge of what to do in the event of a fire. The training is carried out in your workplace to provide less disruption to your business.

Risk Assessments

UK legislation requires all employers carry out a fire risk assessment aimed at removing and reducing the risk of fire.

If over five people are employed, the significant findings of the assessment must be documented. T. & J. Fire's consultancy service provides qualified fire safety personnel at a fraction of the normal cost. Ideal for those sites where there is no suitably trained or qualified staff member.
